UCLA study says legalizing undocumented immigrants would help the economy Based on surveys done after the 1986 amnesty program, it concludes that even during the recession, legalizing undocumented workers would benefit the economy. Even during the ongoing recession, immigration reform legislation that legalizes undocumented immigrants would boost the American economy, according to a new study out of UCLA. The report said that legalization, along with a program that allows for future immigration based on the labor market, would create jobs, increase wages and generate more tax revenue. Comprehensive immigration reform would add an estimated $1.5 trillion to the U.S. gross domestic product over 10 years, according to the report.

IMMIGRATION REPORT

VO :23

The details surrounding the deaths of several individuals inside US immigration detention centers were intentionally concealed. The NYT discovered that government officials had made deliberate attempts to conceal information from the media and the public, despite the Obama administration's promises to increase the transparency of such organizations. As a result, investigations have been conducted by the US Department of Justice's Office of Professional Responsibility and the US Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE). According to the NYT, such internal investigations provide further support that the culture of secrecy has continued in the current administration.

IMMIGRANTS DEATHS

JAIME GARCIA, LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA

PKG:1:59

As Immigration Customs Enforcement (ICE) led raids continue unabated across the country, community based organizations, organized labor, immigration law and policy experts, and religious groups will host a press conference to call on the U.S. Department of Justice to immediately cease and initiate a comprehensive investigation into the dramatic rise in violence against immigrants, immigration raids & check points across the southland. On January the 4th a Border Patrol agent shot and killed an undocumented immigrant near Douglas, Arizona, after the deceased allegedly threw rocks at the immigration officer. Many legal U.S. citizens with birth certificates registered by midwives are reported to have denied entry by U.S. immigration authorities along the Mexico-U.S. border. Moreover, those who are denied had previously attempted to obtain U.S. issued passports but were denied because of official suspicion that their birth certificates had been obtained fraudulently.

IMMIGRANTS TUITION

BLANCA ROSA VILCHEZ, NUEVA JERSEY

PKG 2:22

Students who are illegal immigrants made personal plea to New Jersey lawmakers this week, urging them to pass the bill allowing them to get in state tuition rates. To be eligible, they would be required to pledge to take steps to legalize their immigration status. Ten states already have a law similar to the one new jersey is trying to pass. Democrats are counting on momentum in the final days of governor Jon Corzine's administration since incoming republican governor-elect Chris Christie opposes the measure.

HEALTH CARE OVERHAUL

In a major breakthrough, union leaders bowed Thursday to White House demands for a new tax on high-cost health plans as part of landmark health care legislation taking final shape in intensive negotiations. The tentative agreement on the tax, which included significant concessions by the administration, was disclosed as leading lawmakers set an informal timetable of Friday for a compromise on the health care bill that Obama made a top priority in taking office a year ago.

US IMMIGRATION HAITIANS

LOURDES MELUZA- WASHINGTON, DC

LIVE 1:00

The Obama administration says it will allow Haitians already in the U.S. illegally to remain because of this week's catastrophic earthquake. Homeland Security Secretary Janet Napolitano granted the temporary protected status on Friday. The protection is only available to Haitians already in the country as of last Tuesday.
